

GOODNEWS TO SCHOLARS, INC. NEWSLETTER

PHILANTHROPY IS NOT ABOUT THE SIZE OF A GIFT, BUT ABOUT THE COURAGE TO INVEST IN PEOPLE.

As we celebrate Black History Month, we celebrate the deep roots of generosity that have long strengthened our communities. Early trailblazers like James Forten, who used his resources to support freedom and education, and Mary Ellen Pleasant, whose bold giving helped advance justice and opportunity, show us that philanthropy has always been a powerful force for change. Their lives remind us that when resources are paired with purpose, they can open doors, uplift generations, and rewrite futures.

At Goodnews to Scholars, we are inspired by this legacy every day as we work to expand access, nurture potential, and invest in our scholars, especially those from immigrants and low-income households. Your generosity helps turn hope into action and vision into real outcomes.

We invite you to be part of this impact by attending or donating to our Gala on April 25th. An evening dedicated to celebrating scholars excellence and fueling their post-secondary education. Together, through intentional giving, we can continue building pathways of opportunity and honoring the enduring power of Black philanthropy.
